

1st Press release - Launch of our Erasmus+ project 'e-Skills4All'

CIVIC is proud to announce the launch of 'Eskills4all'; an Erasmus+ project that targets unemployed adults with a special focus on digitally low skilled women. This project will offer practical tools that will support these categories to either (re)enter the labor market or improve their current digital skills which might open more opportunities in their current job.

CIVIC are leading this project, in collaboration with five organisations from all over Europe. Our consortium consists of:

1. CIVIC (UK)
2. ADR Nord-Est (Romania)
3. Civis Plus (Greece)
4. Emphasys Centre (Cyprus)
5. Antenna (Cyprus)
6. WIDE (Luxembourg)

e-Skills4All officially launched last November in Edinburgh where all partners met to discuss our first steps to tackle the existing gap between digital illiteracy and the demands of the labor market.

The European Commission, via the Digital Education Action Plan, is stressing the importance of this plan as around 44% of Europeans lack these skills, vital for the digital innovation and technology sector.

More information can be accessed on our newly launched website www.eskills4all.eu.

Please get in touch with us via the website or our social media if you are interested in this project.
